Funeral Advice You Can Trust

Most people know more about how to buy a car or a major appliance than a funeral, and few do any research or shop around. In addition, most people purchase funeral goods and services when they are stressed and grieving after a death, making them uniquely vulnerable consumers.

To compound the problem, the only place most people know to go for advice is the funeral home. And, while most funeral directors are compassionate, caring people, they are also salespeople running for-profit businesses.

We Can Help

The Funeral Consumers Alliance of Pennsylvania is a volunteer-run, not-for-profit organization that is not associated with the funeral industry. We provide objective support, education and advocacy. We offer tools to empower you to make informed, thoughtful decisions about funeral and memorial arrangements before they are needed. We advocate for consumer-friendly legislation and speak up on behalf of grieving families. We are the only nonprofit organization that stands up for your rights during a difficult and potentially expensive time.

Did You Know?

- ▶ The average cost of a funeral is over $7,000 and that doesn't include the price of the plot, cemetery fees, headstone, obituaries, etc.
- ▶ There are more than 1,580 funeral homes in Pennsylvania, but fewer than 500 are needed to support the death rate. This drives up prices.
- ▶ Since few people comparison shop, most don't know that funeral home prices vary greatly, even in the same town. In Philadelphia, funeral home charges for direct cremation range from under $800 to over $5,000!
- ▶ If you go to a funeral home, the funeral director is required by law to give you a general price list (GPL) that itemizes the costs of all goods and services.
- ▶ If you don't want a viewing or a service in a funeral home, you don't have to use one that's nearby. This can mean big savings.
- ▶ Embalming is not routinely required by law. Refrigeration is almost always an alternative.
- ▶ You can keep a body at home for up to 24 hours, giving family a chance to say goodbye in a comfortable, personal place.
- ▶ You can buy a casket online at a deep discount, and the funeral home receiving it cannot charge you a fee.
